Preview: Not scheduling preventative maintenance is a big risk and here's why.

How Important is Fall HVAC Maintenance Really?

The HVAC system in your home works tirelessly every day for your comfort. The quiet hum you have probably learned to tune out still persists around the clock. This is how your HVAC system is supposed to be, working hard in the background, unnoticed...

Until it breaks. Then, your HVAC system is loud and clear telling you something's wrong. There are, however, ways you can prevent this from happening. Scheduling a bit of seasonal maintenance can help ensure your system goes uninterrupted as nothing more than a soft, steady murmur.

Don't let your HVAC system disturb the peace!

Why is Fall Maintenance Necessary?

It's officially October! And that means the ghosts and ghouls aren't the only thing that will be descending, we can expect the temperature to do the same soon enough.

The arrival of fall means your HVAC system is about to completely switch gears. So, unless you want to be dealing with some very cold nights and inconvenient service interruptions, fall maintenance is a must.

What Your HVAC Maintenance Team Actually Does

If you have an up-to-date system and seasonal checkups with our great team, you shouldn't actually see us too often. Preventative maintenance touches on filters, thermostats, efficiency, leaks, vents, ducts, air flow, and each part of your system so that no surprises come up throughout the winter. These checkups also help maximize the life of your entire system.

While we are always glad to assist you, the fall maintenance you schedule with us can prevent you from needing us for an emergency.

Other Important Things to Remember as Fall Ensues

As you prepare for seasonal changes, also consider what other tasks you should take care of. Change the batteries in your smoke detectors, buy heavier curtains to keep the warm air in, and ring out your doormat and rugs. Also be sure to stock up on all your favorite pumpkin-flavored goods this month!
